N.B.
What the name of Rolants [from] neblew

Fort Hotel Sidmouth
7. Nov '35.

Dear Rene

Thank you for your letter, which I return herewith. It made me very unhappy to read indeed. I don't know why she says me don't know her next address - because already she has written before leaving Finistère - the last letter. I got - giving the Citadel Hotel Jersey & the Continental Hotel Caen as address. I wrote to the Citadel Hotel twice. [illegible] & wrote to Tony H. & Nancy Cunard - & even on these we had abandoned that idea - I wonder why he says there is no railway at Bayeux. I did say in both I was coming here to this address. How awful it is when people go away & one's letters miscarry. How hard is this novel - I'm with how to harden all your hearts & put on bullet-proof arms & shirt or - or what - well - I don't really know - take no heed of notices like Harry marks the Base-drummer at Nanduo. - but then he was always drunk.

Dear Rene "I" the letter which Jim just read this morning & self-revealing please [illegible] to me - I do hate to misunderstand [illegible] & one feels so [illegible] Head drum tonight? I'm speech Mark Anthony — this is this. May also [illegible] a misprint — this is this.

Been [illegible] a quiet to see if I should feel better — a bath that maine was [illegible] jabber — it. raw. cold then with a little rain. British Revieus me arse-pants. no doctor came to try to look at these laminated bandages.

After lunch — Miss Doctor came & took at these bandages — says it's alright for a week — says I've must have some of my tonic & what else some Burgundy for lunch — Well. We've heard all this before —

Do wish Prudence wasn't dirty brandy * that just the worst thing for her stomach. I did tell she never he go sale & Jerusalem & then on to Cairo & see Mamya & then sale home. within a few weeks — but I she wanders into to Syria heaven knows when she will return.

Lady Lester Stanhope — I always dread she might. I must go. down to the Jungle now — it. like ice in the Red-sea in shirts of cotton. Heat. I may say we're pretty superior here / ang me. & Sir Harry Lamb & Italian wife (late minister to Istanbul.) —

I do hate Ottoman coins for

* and as for drinks — water. Syrian streams — it's just it's just makes I've ever had.

* Brandy & did it kennet the customs [illegible]

* [illegible] Ottoman [illegible]

tho week - and like he said - but we need you in yet — I don't suppose he'll come
Can you please let me know quickly
two things.
What is the difference between says

(A) Comes Litoris Saxonici &
Comes litoris Saxonicum.

and

(B) What title had Helen of Troy in Greek
like we say 'Gregory Thaumatagus' = can't spell it — but whether it is or the Punic Tyre — or Greek altogether
what title had Helen? or how the name generally used? — if not I may to say 'Helen of the Ships' — I want "of the ships" in Greek — either characters though, or I shant be able to pronounce it. It comes in my book where a Welsh soldier boasts that he serves with Helen Lluydawc — Helen of the Legions' — the Welsh version where married the Emperor Maximus & he says (in my text) that Helen Lluydawc. in Greek even the Helen of the Ships (if she can be called that in Greek).
& then the Greek term to go with the

N.B. also I want to say Helen of Colchester.
Was Colchester was Camulodunum — can I just simply say Helen Camulodunum or do
the usual declension is some way.

Can I in general the Latin terminations
further assist Latin grammar terms
so called Languages.

Welsh we must have the key significance
Irvant - the welsh word Hwyddawc is roughly pronounced Hwee-ith-awk.
↑
as 'th' in 'them'

I'm just going to ask Fitterey Lambe about
there being no railway at Beyrouth ——
to asked him —— the same time is railway to Beyrouth & Damascus also & alleppo
& if not you could come right home to Calais by rail if you wanted to!
The way the Crusaders used to go to Palestine via Byzantium (Turkey & Syria)
I do under my Providence though there was no railway.
Well - I must stop — for tea & am going to talk about Helen of Troy.
Perhaps you too read the Personal questions in the Walpurgis as well & think of it as I do in the M.D.
There is a man waiter in place of Baldini who is the dining room
has a rather a love of tennis & he insulted me - but we remain friends. We breakfast at 10 o'clock when I want him about that. Then we run into a canon.
Have just bought two ties for V. Kilbride
like me.
me red & me good.
my love to everybody - till Peter
I am writing to her.

yr devoted David.

I've kept the tiger fuzz & cat that Prudence sent - a couple thats alright.